

This is in reference to the proposal by the FCC to allow LPFM to take priority over current FM translators. Should this take affect, the station that I listen to mostly would be forced off of the air. KLOVE provides for me a positive and encouraging way to look at the events that take place in my life personally and in the world around me. I never have to be concerned that things will be said or played that are inappropriate for young children or teens in my presence to hear. My teenagers have KLOVE playing on their stereos all night long. There is no other outlet for those of us who prefer contemporary Christian music to have it available to us. Most of the stations that would be affected by this are of a religious nature. Therefore, once again it is the Christian community that is being discriminated against.

Please to not allow this to happen. KLOVE is on the air because we the listeners choose to pay for it. As a single mother of two it is not easy to give to causes - even those I believe heartily in. Yet, I always find a way to support KLOVE. If we are willing to pay for it, how shameful it would be of the FCC to take that opportunity away from us. I would definitely be VERY outspoken against anyone who tries to push this through.
